

One of only 36 Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty in England, Chichester Harbour is also designated a Site of Special Scientific Interest in recognition of its significance as a habitat for wildlife.

Chichester Harbour has European status as a Special Protection Area and is a 'Wetland of International Importance'. Together these habitats support 15 nationally scarce plant species.

Chichester Harbour is one of the few remaining undeveloped coastal areas in southern England. But the tranquillity and natural beauty of the area is increasingly threatened by the pressures from people, cumulative development, pollution and the ever-growing demand for new housing.

The sixth largest area of saltmarsh in Britain, its other important habitats include sand dunes, vegetated shingle, saline lagoons, ancient woodland and coastal grazing marsh.

The Chichester Harbour Trust is an independent charity that exists to protect the unspoilt beauty and wildlife of the area both now and for future generations to enjoy.
